

I am alarmed that Sinclair Broadcasting is being allowed to force their stations to air a "news" piece that is actually an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election.

I understand that they have never before forced their stations to air "news." This is such a blatant example of thinly disguised partisan politics that is clearly for their own self interest.

This is also a clear example of the danger of media consolidation. Sinclair is not serving the public interest or democracy by forcing it's stations all over the country to air their editorial opinions. Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them.

Sincerely,
Lisa Marcus
